Cunningly clever and comically twisted, Deathtrap hits the stage at Steel River Playhouse in Pottstown

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE - Pottstown, PA — Deathtrap, written by Ira Levin, is a murder mystery masterpiece so wickedly good it's to die for! Performances run March 11th through the 20th with nine performances to choose from, including evenings and Saturday and Sunday matinees.

Deathtrap is Broadway's longest running comic thriller. Once-great playwright, Sidney Bruhl, is struggling to regain his glory and create another hit thriller. Unfortunately, the well has run dry – until Clifford (one of his former students) asks for advice on the play that he's written. Clifford's work is brilliant, so Sidney invites him to his secluded home to review the play... but might have something more sinister planned for his young prodigy. Intrigued? Visit Steel River Playhouse and find out!

Directed by Leena Devlin, Managing Artistic Director at Steel River Playhouse, Deathtrap stars actors Philip Seader as Sidney Bruhl and Zachary Clark as Clifford Anderson, along with Lauren Flanagan (Helga), Andrea Frassoni (Myra) and Don Green (Porter).

Tickets are $17 to $29 and available online at www.steelriver.org. Online ticket ordering allows audience members to select their seat. Groups of ten or more are eligible for a discount.
